Putnam Global Natural Resources Fund

Prospectuses dated December 30, 2018

Putnam Investment Management, LLC (“Putnam Management”), the investment manager of Putnam Global Natural Resources Fund (“Global Natural Resources Fund” or the “fund”), has recommended, and the fund’s Board of Trustees has approved and recommended that shareholders approve, the proposed merger of Global Natural Resources Fund with and into Putnam Global Industrials Fund (“Global Industrials Fund”). Putnam Management and the fund’s Board of Trustees believe that the proposed merger is in the best interests of Global Natural Resources Fund and its shareholders.

Upon the closing of the proposed merger, Global Industrials Fund will change its investment strategies to hold concentrated equity positions without a geographic or industry focus. In connection with this change, Global Industrials Fund will be renamed “Putnam Focused Equity Fund.” While Global Industrials Fund’s investment goal will remain unchanged, Global Industrials Fund’s existing policy (under normal circumstances) to invest at least 80% of its net assets in companies in the industrial products, services or equipment industries will be revised to instead require the repositioned fund (under normal circumstances) to invest at least 80% of its net assets in equity investments. In addition, Global Industrials Fund’s existing policy (under normal circumstances) to invest in at least five different countries and at least 40% of its net assets in securities of foreign companies (or, if less, at least the percentage of net assets that is 10% less than the percentage of the fund’s benchmark represented by foreign companies, as determined by the providers of the benchmark) will be eliminated. Global Industrials Fund’s benchmark will also be changed from the MSCI World Industrials Index (ND) to the S&P 500 Index.

Putnam Management has also recommended, and the Global Industrials Fund’s Board of Trustees has approved, a change to the fund’s fundamental investment policy on industry concentration, which currently provides that the fund will normally invest at least 25% of its net assets in the industrial products, services or equipment industries. Under the proposed fundamental investment policy, which is subject to approval by shareholders of Global Industrials Fund and would take effect upon the closing of the proposed merger, Global Industrials Fund would not invest more than 25% of its total assets in any one industry. The changes to Global Industrials Fund described in this supplement are not contingent upon completion of the proposed merger and are expected to proceed whether or not the proposed merger takes place (in the case of the proposed change to Global Industrial Fund’s fundamental investment policy on industry concentration, if approved by shareholders of Global Industrial Fund).

A full description of Global Industrials Fund and Putnam Focused Equity Fund, the similarities and differences between Global Natural Resources Fund, Global Industrials Fund and Putnam Focused Equity Fund, and the terms of the proposed merger will be contained in a combined prospectus/proxy statement (the “prospectus/proxy statement”), which is expected to be mailed to shareholders in early April 2019. The prospectus/proxy statement will solicit Global Natural Resources Fund shareholder votes to approve the proposed merger.

Completion of the proposed merger is subject to a number of conditions, including approval by shareholders of Global Natural Resources Fund. A special meeting of shareholders of Global Natural Resources Fund is currently scheduled for May 29, 2019, although the shareholder meeting may be adjourned to a later date. The proposed merger is expected to be a tax-free reorganization for federal income tax purposes. If shareholders of the fund do not approve the proposed merger, the merger will not proceed.

If shareholders approve the proposed merger, Putnam Management currently expects that Global Natural Resources Fund will make dispositions of certain portfolio holdings prior to the merger. These sales, which are anticipated to commence in early June 2019, and will not occur unless and until shareholders approve the proposed merger, would result in brokerage commissions and other transaction costs, and may result in the realization of capital gains that would be distributed to shareholders as taxable distributions.

Global Natural Resources Fund will be closed to new accounts on or about May 20, 2019. At any time prior to the close of the proposed merger, you can sell your shares back to the fund or exchange them for shares of another Putnam fund any day the New York Stock Exchange is open. Shares may be sold or exchanged by mail, by phone, or online at putnam.com. Some restrictions may apply. Such exchanges will be taxable transactions.

The foregoing is not an offer to sell, nor a solicitation of an offer to buy, shares of Global Industrials Fund, nor is it a solicitation of any proxy. For more information regarding Global Industrials Fund, or to receive a free copy of the prospectus/proxy statement relating to the proposed merger (and containing important information about fees, expenses and risk considerations) once a registration statement relating to the proposed merger has been filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission and becomes effective, please call 1-800-225-1581. The prospectus/proxy statement relating to the proposed merger will also be available for free on the Securities and Exchange Commission's website (<http://www.sec.gov>). Please read the prospectus/proxy statement relating to the proposed merger carefully before making any investment decisions.

Shareholders should retain this Supplement for future reference.

Example

The following hypothetical example is intended to help you compare the cost of investing in the fund with the cost of investing in other funds. It assumes that you invest $10,000 in the fund for the time periods indicated and then, except as indicated, redeem all your shares at the end of those periods. It assumes a 5% return on your investment each year and that the fund's operating expenses remain the same. Your actual costs may be higher or lower.

Portfolio turnover

The fund pays transaction-related costs, such as commissions, when it buys and sells securities (or "turns over" its portfolio). A higher turnover rate may indicate higher transaction costs and may result in higher taxes when the fund's shares are held in a taxable account. These costs, which are not reflected in annual fund operating expenses or the above example, affect fund performance. The fund's turnover rate in the most recent fiscal year was 217%.

Investments, risks, and performance

Investments

For this non-diversified fund concentrating in the energy and other natural resources industries, we invest mainly in common stocks (growth or value stocks or both) of large and midsize companies worldwide that we believe have favorable investment potential. Under normal circumstances, we invest at least 80% of the fund's net assets in securities of companies in the energy or other natural resources industries. This policy may be changed only after 60 days' notice to shareholders. Potential investments include companies in the discovery, development, production or distribution of energy or other natural resources, in the development of technologies for the production or efficient use of energy or other natural resources, and in the furnishing of related supplies or services. We may purchase stocks of companies with stock prices that reflect a value lower than that which we place on the company. We may also consider other factors that we believe will cause the stock price to rise. We may consider, among other factors, a company's valuation, financial strength, growth potential, competitive position in its industry, projected future earnings, cash flows and dividends when deciding whether to buy or sell investments. We may also use derivatives, such as futures, options, certain foreign currency transactions, warrants and swap contracts, for both hedging and non-hedging purposes, and may engage in short sales of securities.

The use of the term "global" in the fund's name is meant to emphasize that we look for investment opportunities on a worldwide basis and that our investment strategies are not constrained by the countries or regions in which companies are located. Under normal market conditions, the fund intends to invest in at least five different countries and at least 40% of its net assets in securities of foreign companies (or, if less, at least the percentage of net assets that is 10% less than the percentage of the fund's benchmark represented by foreign companies, as determined by the providers of the benchmark).

Risks

It is important to understand that you can lose money by investing in the fund.

The value of stocks in the fund's portfolio may fall or fail to rise over extended periods of time for a variety of reasons, including general financial market conditions, changing market perceptions, changes in government intervention in the financial markets, and factors related to a specific issuer or industry. These and other factors may lead to increased volatility and reduced liquidity in the fund's portfolio holdings. Growth stocks may be more susceptible to earnings disappointments, and value stocks may fail to rebound. These risks are generally greater for small and midsize companies. The energy and other natural resources industries may be affected by changes in crude oil prices and changes in governmental regulatory policies. Our policy of concentrating on a limited group of industries and the fund's "non-diversified" status, which means the fund may invest a greater percentage of its assets in fewer issuers than a “diversified fund,” can increase the fund’s vulnerability to adverse developments affecting a single industry or issuer, which may result in greater losses and volatility for the fund. The value of international investments traded in foreign currencies may be adversely impacted by fluctuations in exchange rates. International investments, particularly investments in emerging markets, may carry risks associated with potentially less stable economies or governments (such as the risk of seizure by a foreign government, the imposition of currency or other restrictions, or high levels of inflation), and may be illiquid. Our use of derivatives may increase the risks of investing in the fund by increasing investment exposure (which may be considered leverage) or, in the case of many over-the-counter instruments, because of the potential inability to terminate or sell derivatives positions and the potential failure of the other party to the instrument to meet its obligations. Our use of short selling may result in losses if the securities appreciate in value.

The fund may not achieve its goal, and it is not intended to be a complete investment program. An investment in the fund is not insured or guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or any other government agency.

Performance

The performance information below gives some indication of the risks associated with an investment in the fund by showing the fund’s performance year to year and over time. The bar chart does not reflect the impact of sales charges. If it did, performance would be lower. Please remember that past performance is not necessarily an indication of future results. Monthly performance figures for the fund are available at putnam.com.
