However, student debt was $1.3 trillion at the end of 2016, an increase of about 170% from 2006. ## Junior year

Financial priorities for parents

Saving and finances
- Explore a home equity loan as a potential source of funding.

Financial aid
- Determine the Expected Family Contribution (EFC) for financial aid. The EFC process factors income from the “prior prior” year. Note that increases in income — for example, from the sale of a stock or a Roth IRA conversion — may affect aid.
- The financial aid calculator (FAFSA4caster) on the FAFSA website can estimate potential financial aid. Review 529 account ownership to determine if changes are appropriate when considering financial aid.
- Research whether targeted colleges require the College Scholarship Service Profile (CSS Profile) application as part of their financial aid process.
- Start compiling information for FAFSA submission including: tax returns and information on savings, investments, and assets.

Student action plan

School-based goals
- Keep a calendar of tests (PSAT in October; SAT, SAT subject tests, and ACT later in the year).
- Take a prep course or find a tutor for standardized tests.
- Make sure coursework, such as number of AP classes, reflects the academic requirement of targeted schools.
- Start building a resume and include summer employment, internships, and achievements.
- Meet with teachers, coaches, or mentors in person to request letters of recommendation.

Research
- Research colleges and attend college fairs. Think about an area of interest to pursue; this will help drive the list of colleges.
- Begin college visits in the fall. Get advice from older friends and family who have recently gone through the process.

Senior year

Financial priorities for parents

Saving and finances
- Ask employer if scholarships are available for children attending college.
- Make sure you have enough liquid assets for college-related expenses. This may require investment transfers within college savings accounts to more conservative options.
- Consider allocating funds within a custodial account (i.e., UGMA or UTMA) or regular savings account for travel costs, which are not considered “qualified expenses” for 529 plans.
- Identify which savings accounts to tap into first for expenses based on investment, tax, or financial aid considerations.
- Research tax credits and deductions to help with college costs.

Financial aid
- Attend a college aid workshop or meet with a professional college counselor.
- Complete the FAFSA form (between October 1 and June 30). Bear in mind that many states and colleges request FAFSA submission as soon as possible after October 1.

Key documents
- Have student complete a health-care proxy when turning 18 and before going to college.

Student action plan

School-based goals
- Take the SAT/ACT in the fall.
- Review social media accounts to make sure profiles and posted content would not jeopardize an admissions decision.
- Establish a professional presence by creating a LinkedIn profile.

Application process
- Over the summer before senior year, start working on Common Application and college essay.
- Research application options, including early decision, early action, regular admission, and rolling admission.
- If opting for early decision, apply to colleges as early as November.
- Research and apply for local scholarships from schools, towns, and relevant organizations.

Campus visits
- Find out which schools offer interviews and set up meetings. Schedule campus visits when school is in session to experience daily life on campus. Trim your college list to a few safety, match, and reach schools.
- If pursuing athletics, contact coaches to schedule official on-campus visits in the fall.
For students, planning for college is an exciting time to think about the future. It also involves many important actions and deadlines that need to be met during high school. Staying organized will be key to take advantage of opportunities as you prepare for college. For parents, the window to save may have narrowed, but there is still time to optimize financial decisions.

It is important for families to consider potential tax advantages and liabilities. Assets outside of college savings accounts may add to the complexity. Parents must be mindful of account ownership and income that can affect their child’s eligibility for financial aid. Having a plan to make withdrawals for college expenses is as important as planning to save. Read Putnam’s investor education piece, “Strategies to make the most of college savings,” to consider guidance on saving as well as selecting accounts to draw on when the first tuition bill arrives. At all stages of planning for college, it is important to meet with a financial professional.
