

Ready-to-use seminars for your clients

Financial representatives know that the best clients are those with an understanding of the issues. That's why at Putnam we have developed a series of seminars that speak to the most important issues and investment topics facing investors today, from college planning to retirement and estate planning.

Putnam's series of client seminars offers you the opportunity to provide an additional level of value to your clients. From compliance-approved invitations to scripted presentations, you'll have everything you need to give a great seminar. And with the help of your Putnam consulting team, you'll find it easier than ever to organize a high-quality seminar from start to finish.

Social Security: Five things you need to know

With the decline of guaranteed income sources like private pensions, Social Security is an increasingly critical component of a comprehensive and sustainable retirement income plan. Unfortunately, many Americans have limited understanding of how Social Security works and often make inadequate choices when claiming retirement benefits. This seminar examines the key risks retirees face — longevity, inflation, and market volatility, for example — and highlights how Social Security can help address these risks. We also present five important issues individuals and couples should consider before making important decisions around Social Security.

Tax strategies for the current landscape

From recent changes due to the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA), CARES Act, and the SECURE Act, to the risk of higher taxes in the near future, taxpayers face challenges in managing their current tax bill while planning for an uncertain future. This seminar examines key income and estate tax planning strategies including maximizing the use of deductions, taking advantage of (current) lower tax brackets, and finding efficient means of transferring wealth.

Wealth planning strategies for business owners

While focusing on the daily demands of running a company, business owners may neglect critical financial planning needs that can affect their current and future financial livelihood. This seminar explores four key areas of focus for financial planning — tax considerations, saving for retirement, shielding assets from potential creditors, and planning for succession.

Strategies for a sustainable income in retirement

As boomers move toward retirement, they face new challenges — from rising health-care costs to sustaining assets in retirement. This presentation discusses strategies to help fund a successful retirement, including asset allocation and risk management.

Putnam's series of client seminars offers financial representatives the opportunity to expand their clients' investment knowledge on a range of timely topics.

Empower, elevate, achieve: Financial guidebook for women

Women control roughly 51% of personal wealth in the United States, and are increasingly in charge of financial decision-making and investing. At the same time, they face specific challenges to financial planning including longevity and earnings inequality. Speak directly to your clients about these unique challenges and opportunities and ways they can work with you moving forward.

Strategies to safeguard your wealth

Investors who have accumulated significant wealth through investments, retirement savings, real estate, and businesses should consider ways to protect those hard-earned assets from a lawsuit, civil claims, or bankruptcy proceeding. A thoughtful asset protection plan can help maintain a standard of living and preserve the ability to pass assets to heirs and/or charitable organizations. This workshop explores a range of strategies to help safeguard wealth through the use of insurance and retirement plans, and the establishment of legal structures such as LLCs and trusts.

Planning for health care in retirement

With more Baby Boomers retiring and life expectancies increasing, health-care costs in retirement are consuming a greater portion of household income. In fact, lifetime retirement health-care costs for a 65-year-old healthy couple retiring this year will exceed $250,000. This presentation explores trends in health-care spending, provides details on navigating Medicare, and presents actionable planning strategies.

Using today's wealth for tomorrow's goals

Wealth management refers to a multifaceted approach to accumulating wealth, preserving wealth, spending down wealth, and passing wealth on to heirs. This seminar explores specific wealth management strategies to help with funding college education, preserving wealth by applying tax-smart techniques, planning for income in retirement, and transferring wealth efficiently.
